Children's Etiquette & Afternoon Tea for Parents

Parents and grandparents know that consideration, respect and honesty, the basic principles of etiquette, start at home. Join Cindy Post Senning, Ed.D., of The Emily Post Institute, and tea etiquette expert Ellen Easton, author of Afternoon Tea – Tips, Terms and Traditions, for a two-hour interactive workshop on the gift of good manners.

Dr. Senning will talk to parents about the fundamentals of etiquette and share important tips for helping children to build and maintain relationships at different ages and stages.

Ms. Easton will host a lovely five-course tea and share interesting information on tea and the etiquette surrounding it. Each attendee will receive Ms. Easton's book as well as The Gift of Good Manners by Peggy Post and Cindy Post Senning. Additional Emily Post books will be available for purchase and signing.

Table Manners & Afternoon Tea for Children

Just in time for holiday family gatherings! Children aged eight to twelve will learn the basic principles behind good manners as only The Emily Post Institute can teach them. During this interactive two-hour workshop, Cindy Post Senning, Ed.D., great-granddaughter of Emily Post, will discuss appropriate table and everyday manners. Tea etiquette expert Ellen Easton will teach children about tea time while they enjoy afternoon tea.

Each child will receive The Guide to Good Manners for Kids, by Peggy Post and Cindy Post Senning, Afternoon Tea – Tips, Terms and Traditions, by Ellen Easton, and an Emily Post certificate. An additional selection of Emily Post books will be available for purchase and signing.
